THE EMIGRANT:

A Weekly Paper to be published in Milwaukee, on Saturday, the first week of December, 1850, and every succeeding Saturday.

☞ Terms—$2 00 per annum, quarterly in advance

To those who behold—every year—thousands of toiling and industrious human beings coming to seek a home, and a shelter, far from the land of their childhood, in this American Republic, it may not appear strange that a man, (an Irish Emigrant himself,) should think of establishing a newspaper, devoted, in some measure, to the instruction and guidance of his fellows—a directory, as it were, to the stranger, in fixing on a set principle of action, suited alike to all grades and all callings—cautioning the unwary and unitiated, against the numerous snares and many pitfalls, that are constantly laid in their innocent way, (by the designing and cruel-hearted,) in which they lose their property, their peace of mind, and often times their health, never, never, (perhaps with few exceptions,) to recover those pecuniary losses, or their former happiness.

The public are aware how many aspersions our old countrymen are subjected to, [sometimes deserved, but oftener not—intoxication, quarreling, and theft being the principal accusations in the calendar of crimes,] but it must be acknowledged that those misfortunes befall us from the want of some kind monitor—some trustworthy friend, to keep us in the right way, and guide our steps through the mazes of danger and vice, into which the young and unguarded fall, without knowing when that danger is at hand, or how to avoid it.

To bring the settler then to a just level with the native citizen, in every department, will be the proudest task of the Editor, and if the success of the undertaking be only partial for a time, still, with a little encouragement from the people, the laborer will be excited to greater action, and renewed perseverance, disclaiming [in toto] all party politics, at the same time exposing injustice and unmasking fraud, infamy, and deceit, too commonly practiced in a new country.

The increasing poverty of Ireland, and other European countries, [accompanied, alas! this harvest, with the failure of the wheat and potatoe crop,] must drive half a million more, next spring, to the friendly shores of this continent, and therefore, it is more than ever necessary, that our brethren should have reliable information and unprejudiced advice in a public print.

The hardy and bold man from the Mountains of Kerry—the plodding, sober-minded, of the rich fields of Limerick or Meath—the industrious artizan of Manchester or Birmingham—the rough, healthy looking farmer of Leicester or Norfolk—the far-off Highlander of Caithness, or the more refined Southerner from Clyde Dale, may all profit alike by some organ suited to their tastes, yet drawing them still closer, in heart and mind, to the interests and welfare of their adopted nation.

We close this notice with a hope that this publication will obtain a fair patronage, from all classes, [the people of Wisconsin in particular,] and with the assurance that our motto shall be—"The truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth!" oct19-dtd

BOOK-BINDING ESTABLISHMENT.

AN OLD FRIEND IN A NEW PLACE!

Blank Book Manufactory and Stationery.

170 East Water street,

Third door north of Michigan street, up stairs,

And 335 Third st., 2d Ward, old stand,

Milwaukee, - - Wisconsin.

HENRY NIEDECKEN,

A PRACTICAL BOOK-BINDER of long experience, in all its branches, would most respectfully inform the citizens of Milwaukee and the surrounding country, that he is prepared to bind any description of Books, being possessed of the best gilding and finishing tools, and keeping constantly on hand the first quality of binding material. He has found it necessary, by reason of increasing business, (consequent upon his low price and superior quality of work and materials,) to open another for the convenience of his "down town" friends, at the above mentioned place, where he will be happy to see his old customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

Blank Books for banks, merchants, county clerks, recorders, auditors, treasurers, school commissioners, magistrates, insurance offices, &c, manufactured in the best manner, which in elegance, durability, and superiority of style and finish, will not be surpassed by any eastern manufacturer. In all his large blank books, he uses the improved patent mode of sewing, which gives strength, with great elasticity, and is incomparably superior to any other method for blank books, and will keep the leaves firm and solid while the book lasts, instead of coming to pieces, as is often the case with all other methods. No additional charge is made for this improvement.

Machine Ruling.—Ruling of every description, for blank books, tax lists, &c, neatly and promptly executed.

Fancy Articles.—He is also prepared to make all kinds of fancy articles, such as ladies' and gentlemen's portfolios, caskets, card, spectacle and segar cases, pocket books, &c, with neatness and despatch.

Ruled Music Paper.—He will also keep on hand a supply of blank paper ruled for manuscript music, which he can sell at so low a price that it will be a great saving of time, labor and money, to buy this all ruled and ready for writing the music.

Albums, Magazines, Music Books, &c, will be bound with the greatest care, and in a neat and elegant style, to which the attention of the ladies is most particularly invited.

Bibles, Hymn, Prayer and School Books, are constantly kept on hand, as also STATIONERY, of all kinds, such as writing paper, ink, quills, steel pens, sealing wax, slates, writing books, and wafers, and a variety of books too numerous to mention.

GILT PICTURE FRAMES.

He is also in constant receipt, (imported direct from Germany by himself,) of a superior article of gilt frames, of all sizes, which he will sell at prices which cannot fail of suiting purchasers. He will be happy to show his goods and style of work to all who will favor him with a call, as he is confident that he can please every variety of taste. By good work and honest dealing, he expects to gain the patronage of the citizens of Milwaukee and the surrounding country oct12 d24

Latest and best Collection of Church Music.

NOW READY,

THE GOLDEN LYRE:

A NEW Collection of Church Music, adapted to the various metres now in use, together with a great variety of new Anthems, Sentences and Chants, for choirs, singing classes, musical associations, and social sacred music circles—by V C TAYLOR, author of "Taylor's Sacred Music Minstrel," "Choral Anthems," &c &c

"We have explored its contents enough to dare to speak well of it. Mr Taylor is, himself, the author of a good part of the work, and he shows musical feeling, taste and invention, which make it no presumption in him to appear as a composer * * * Mr Taylor's pieces are commended by their melody woven into all the four parts, by their expressiveness, which always varies with the subject, and by their uniformly artistic style * * * And last, but not least, the work is more beautifully and clearly printed than any work which we remember of the kind"—N Y Tribune

"We believe the book to be greatly superior to any that has preceded it, and we think it may claim to be better adapted to, and more suitable for, the use of choirs"—Saroni's Musical Times

"We have examined this new collection of church music, and would add our favorable opinion of its merits, to the many encomiums it has elicited"—N Y Evangelist HAWLEY, FULLER & CO, Publishers, Utica, New York

MILWAUKEE:

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, NOV. 29.

MEAN MEN.

Mrs. SWISSHELM of the Saturday Visitor, has an excellent opinion of masculine goodness. Total depravity, in her estimation, never tainted the male sex. Homo is to her, what homing is to a Georgian Planter, a necessity and a luxury always acceptable—in short, her chief delight. She has come in contact with "editors, reporters, pressmen, printers, and 'devils,'" in fact, all sorts of masculines, and has trusted implicitly, and without loss, those reputed to be the most arrant knaves, and among them all—always excepting Daniel Webster and one other—she has never found a mean man. (We have a great mind to send her ". . . . .s,—just for a variety—with a bushel of his coppers issued contrary to law.)

The philosophy of Mrs. Swisshelm's experience, we take to be this: She has faith in man, always treats men as men, puts them on their good behavior, and appeals to their better nature. And there is a deep and wise philosophy in this. To treat men as rogues, is the surest way to make them rogues, if they are not such already. Tell them you have no confidence in them,—destroy their self-respect, and they have small inducement to be honest. If a man feels that you have confidence in him, he has a strong inducement to retain your confidence, and will be slow to violate it. For that is to him so much precious capital, which he will be anxious to husband, instead of wasting.

The mean men with whom we meet, were made so by education, and the selfishness of others. Men do not become superlatively mean all at once, but this trait grows up with them from boyhood, and often from extreme juvenility.

The mean man is always unhappy, and is quite as much an object of pity, as contempt. Sometimes he puts on a swaggering air, and acts as if he had a right to existence, but it is all a farce, for, at heart, he is always ashamed of himself, and feels that he owes an apology to every man for being in the world. We have tried to account for such men, by supposing that they never had a mother, but were propagated by some lusus Naturae—possibly produced, as Minerva was, from the brain of Jupiter, but at a time when his mind was intent on some villainous conception.—However, we think the more rational conclusion, is, that they all had maternal ancestors, but, from some unexplained, though natural causes, are abnormal specimens of the race, whose peculiar mission is, to furnish a dark background to the rest of mankind, and heighten their virtues, by contrast, as the blackness of Tophet, with its eternal volume of ascending smoke, does, the brightness and glory of the New Jerusalem.

Mean men! From all such creatures—in the expressive language of the Litany, we pray, "Good Lord deliver us!" And let all the people say Amen!

THOMPSON'S SPEECH.—Read it, and see what kind of a man the Advertiser denounces as an Abolitionist, and would hiss down, and put down, wherever he attempts to speak.—How the English Democrat towers in the sublimity of true Manliness, moral sentiment, humane sympathy, and genuine Democracy, over the Commercial Advertiser and advocate of Slave-Catching, Speech-Gagging, Mobs, and the Hunker Platform, above which rises the throne of the Slave Power, snuffing the blood of its victims as sweet incense, and regaling its ears with the cries of the helpless and the dying, as delightful music.

George Thompson has the soul of a Man.

The Commercial Advertiser is a preserved Hunker mummy,—the shrivelled and soulless relic of a heartless Aristocracy, dressed up in the guise of Democracy, but denying the doctrines of Human Equality, Human Rights, and Human Brotherhood.

☞ Friend Hadley, of the Watertown Chronicle, as we before have had occasion to remark, makes an excellent paper. But his last number is unusually interesting, for in the space of a column and a half, of "All sorts of Paragraphs," are fifty articles—taken bodily from the Free Democrat without credit,—which cost us considerable labor to write and compile. We can get along with the retail system of trading very well, but for such wholesale accommodations, we should like to have an occasional credit.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Mr. Ezra Mendall, of Waukesha, received a serious injury from the accidental discharge of his rifle, while on a hunting excursion, Wednesday, 27th. He was standing on a stump, when the gun slipped off, and the jar discharged it. The ball shattered his wrist, and passing in the lower part of his bowels, finally lodged back of the collar bone. He is under the care of Dr. Farner, and is expected to recover.

☞ The stanzas of A. O. B. are accepted and will appear in due time.

CITY MATTERS.

FIRE!—Incendiarism.—There was a startling alarm of fire last evening, about 9 o'clock. It proceded from the Store lately occupied by W. K. Miles, Tobacconist. It was evidently an attempt at incendiarism, the circumstances of which were as follow: The boy attending in the adjoining store of Waite and Kimball, was startled, a short time before, by strange voices conversing in the rear of the building. He next heard a noise in the unoccupied room, and soon perceived signs of fire. He burst through the door, and the flames were just breaking out. An alarm was raised, and the fire was soon extinguished.—On an examination of the premises, it was evident that shavings had been thrown into the room, the floor spread with tar, and camphene, or some other combustible, used to ignite them. It was fortunate that the flames were so soon extinguished, otherwise, with the cold, and a high wind at the time, a conflagration more ruinous, doubtless, than any that was ever experienced in the city, would have been the result.

DROWNED.—The body of a man, drowned, was found yesterday, on the beach near the light house. A coroner's inquest was held over it, by Justice DORAN, the verdict of which was that "he came to his death by accidental drowning." A mark was discovered under his eye, that might indicate a supposition of foul play. Another supposition was, that he was one of two brothers who fell from the pier the evening after election day.—Nothing was found on the body by which it could be identified, or the name ascertained.

MR. ORTON'S LECTURE

Was well attended, and, but for the unpropitious weather, we doubt not the house would have been crowded. His subject,—Secular Morality, embracing our duties to man, in distinction from Religion, which comprises our duties to God,—he divided into three branches, Political, Commercial, and Social. The term Religion he used in the orthodox sense, asserting that there might be Morality without Religion, but Religion could not exist without Morality. In the sense in which he used those terms, it is true. But, in a wider sense, all mankind are religious, and have some standard of morality.

On the subject of Political Morality,—the duties of men to the State,—enacting, sustaining, and obeying the laws, bearing office, and exercising the right of suffrage,—the lecturer was clear, definite, truthful, and eloquent. The principles he enforced commend themselves to the good sense and conscience of every enlightened citizen, and are essential to the perpetuity of our free institutions, and the highest good of the State.

The application of his subject to commercial transactions, was not as clear,—the lecturer taking too much for granted as present to the minds of the audience, and not pointing out, with sufficient definiteness, the infractions of morality by the present system of trade. It was, doubtless, all clear to the mind of the lecturer, but not so clear, we apprehend, to the minds of his hearers. Could he have spent more time in explaining how the just laws of trade—the Golden Rule of Commerce—are violated by our present Commercial system, the impression of wrong would have been far stronger, and the remedy more apparent.

We noticed a similar defect in his remarks on the Social system, with the exception of the institution of Marriage. But as the time was limited, it was impossible to discuss fully all the branches of the subject, in one lecture. Each topic demanded a whole lecture.

On the whole, the performance was well done, and gave good satisfaction to the audience. Mr. O. is a good speaker, natural in his tones and gestures, impressive in his delivery, and has a pretty clear appreciation of the right.

We trust these lectures will be well attended in future, and that a new impulse will be given to the Young Men's Association.

J. H. TESCH'S STORE.—This Family Medicine Store, under the Methodist Church, is now supplied with all the varieties of remedies which the faculty men, and men of no faculty certify to be efficacious in curing human ills. Their advertisement tells the whole story.

☞ Some one is in town soliciting subscrip- for the "Message Bird," published by M. T. Brocklebank, a young gentleman, who took much pains to interest us in his work, and after getting us to notice it favorably, forgot his promise to send it to us. He sent us two numbers and then suspended.

TART.—One of our most careful grocers, recently bought a large stock of cranberries, which, on tasting, he found had become sour. Owing, doubtless, to the warm weather of last summer.

RAISED.—Col. S.'s housekeeper, having last evening, put a quantity of yeast in the kneading trough half full of paste, it fermented during the night, and blew up a whole batch of bread.

For the Democrat.

Mr. Editor,—It strikes us that the lectures delivered before the Young Men's Association, begin too early. We do not close our stores until 8 o'clock, and this makes us too late, by half an hour, at the lecture. In New York, Albany, and Rochester, the regular time for lectures to commence, is 8 o'clock. This enables clerks to attend them promptly. By publishing this, you will confer a favor upon

SEVERAL CLERKS.

Milwaukee, Nov. 28, 1850.

"Several clerks" are right. The lectures should not commence until 8 o'clock, as we presume one object in getting up the lectures, is to benefit this large and respectable class of young men, as well as the mechanics.

OVERBOARD.—We understand that one of the wheelsmen fell overboard from the Champion last evening, and was drowned.

MONEY MATTERS.—Look Out!—By Thompson's Reporter for Nov. 22, we learn that

"The notes of the BANK OF CORNING, N. Y., are discredited by the Albany Banks and Brokers. At the present price of the stocks which form the securities of the circulating notes of this Bank, the billholder cannot lose over 10 per cent., and at that rate we quote them until further informed."

This reliable Money Journal also gives a simile of the City Bank of Chicago, which it describes as

"A newly invented currency; it is made up partly of sham certificates of deposit in sham banks, and partly of sham drafts payable at sham banks."

Pass it round.

BLISS' COMPOUND COD LIVER OIL CANDY.—THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.—This admirable remedy for Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Asthma, Bronchitis, and all affections of the Throat and Lungs, has now been before the public for the last year, during which time it has been tested most thoroughly by the most competent to decide upon its merits. Every one knows the virtues of Cod Liver Oil, but it is like a "sealed book" to thousands of suffering invalids on account of its repulsive taste and smell. The proprietor has entirely obviated this, without detracting from the medicinal virtues of the Oil, by combining it with certain other celebrated caratives, in the form of a most agreeable article of confectionery, by which it can be administered to the most delicate invalid with the least inconvenience. Purchasers must beware of counterfeits, as its rapidly increasing popularity has excited the cupidity of certain Druggists and Confectioners in various parts of the country, who are preparing an article under the same name, put up in similar style with a copy of the wrapper, and are thus endeavoring to palm their miserable imitation upon the public as the genuine article. To secure the public from imposition and to prevent further counterfeits, the proprietor has procured a new and elegant wrapper, with a vignette representing a fleet engaged in the cod fisheries on our coast and the method of extracting the oil from the livers of the Cods, and have secured the copy-right of the same, and I shall deal with all infringements to the extent of the law.
N. B. Be particular and enquire for ☞ "Bliss's Compound Cod Liver Oil Candy." Examine the wrapper and observe the fac-similie of the signature of the proprietor, without which none can be genuine. SPEECH OF MR. THOMPSON.

[illegible] upward I have cherished sentiments of the profoundest admiration for the [illegible] deeds of your venerated patriots. My [illegible] to live with you as a people [illegible] all the events that have [illegible]. The vindicators of [illegible] own countrymen have [illegible] idolatry. I have justified [illegible] struggle. I have ex[illegible] maintenance of your [illegible] prayed for the perpetuity [illegible] and I can and do to-night [illegible] God that for more than three [illegible] have furnished to the [illegible] lesson and the ex[illegible] duty, the peroga[illegible] men to govern them[illegible].

[illegible] country, under a [illegible] I have nevertheless [illegible] truths upon which [illegible] pendence are based. [illegible] that the people were [illegible] of all governing [illegible] Governments are of [illegible] law, the Universe [illegible] I have maintained [illegible] of the people to [illegible] Government [illegible] live, and to elect [illegible] should be ad[illegible].

[illegible] the Senate, I have [illegible] calculated to dimin[illegible] their industry, [illegible] way to the [illegible] incite them [illegible] to perseverance, [illegible] liberty, and give [illegible] controlling in[illegible] of the vast Em[illegible] and in the re[illegible] right to partici[illegible].

[illegible] I find my[illegible] principles I have [illegible] apply, are estab[illegible] exception car[illegible] must be to find [illegible] those principles have [illegible] acted upon, [illegible] have advanced in [illegible] in power; judge [illegible] find myself in [illegible] those principles of old [illegible] political life, and [illegible] the spirits of an op[illegible].

[illegible] of the Revolution[illegible] to thank you for the [illegible] native land, for [illegible].

[illegible] of Revolutionary [illegible] from that country [illegible] coming years will be [illegible] of this mighty nation, [illegible] worthy your high de[illegible] free from suspicions, [illegible] to share your [illegible] your achieve[illegible] the glorious pros[illegible] in this wide spread [illegible] to call you my broth[illegible] my soil, a brother's [illegible].

[illegible] passed since my former [illegible] they have been years [illegible] Old World and in the [illegible] happy to say, our [illegible]. Upon no great [illegible] retrograde step. [illegible] the condition of slavery has [illegible] fifty years ago, it was [illegible] slave touching the [illegible]. Since that [illegible] Great Britain have been [illegible]. No fugitives from bond[illegible] from our altars and [illegible] endeavored to fulfil the [illegible] the slave to dwell [illegible] and there never have [illegible] in obedience to the [illegible] view of a coming [illegible] to shelter the wander[illegible] hungered, and to [illegible] and to recognise and [illegible] the person of the [illegible] his brethren. Still [illegible] of Cowper is true:

> [illegible] England, if their lungs
> [illegible] they are free
> [illegible] their shackles fall.

[illegible] in every country calling [illegible] free. Cotemporaneously [illegible] States of America the African [illegible] abolished: and subsequently, [illegible] twenty-five years, the act [illegible] Slavery was obtained. [illegible] act was passed by the [illegible] declaring slave holding [illegible] throughout the whole of our vast [illegible] possessions.

Truth [illegible] the confession that oppression and misery in a thousand forms are [illegible] in all parts of the British [illegible]. While the lovers of freedom and [illegible] of philanthropy have been laboring to extirpate the foul systems of slavery and the slave trade, and in other ways have been seeking to ameliorate the condition of [illegible] subjects and of the human race, others of my countrymen have been trampling on the rights of the weak and defenseless in various parts of the world—have been sustaining [illegible] monopolies injurious to the interests and in violation of the rights of the people.

These are admissions which however humiliating, every candid Englishman is bound to make. He is [illegible] also to receive meekly the reproofs of those nations that have been more mindful of the first claims of the industrious and meritorious millions.

Still, permit me to repeat it, our course has been onward.

Since I was among you we have successfully assailed the confederated aristocracies and landocracies of England, who were the inventors, the framers and through 30 years the selfish and short sighted supporters of the atrocious Corn Laws.

It would be impossible to overstate the value and importance, present and prospective of the victory.

It revealed the power and omnipotence of an intellig[illegible] people.

It meliorated the horrors of a desolating famine in Ireland, and when I speak of that visitation, let me also express a nation's gratitude to this country for its generous pity, and most noble and seasonable assistance rendered in the hour of calamity and want to the people of Ireland. The abolition of the Corn Laws has cheapened the food of the people.—It has opened our ports to the harvests of the world. It has extended our commerce with all grain producing countries. It has established a sound regulating principle the benefits of which are felt through all our trading and monetary transactions.

It will fix the real value of land throughout Great Britain and the value of the capital and labor employed upon it.

It will settle the all-important question of Rent.

It will ultimately work the deliverance of the farmers of England from their bondage to the aristocratic proprietors of the soil.

It will bring the agricultural class into the ranks of the financial and parliamentiary reformers, and will unite them in sympathy, in interests, and in effort with the other portions of the people.

The abolition of the Corn Laws will do still more than this. It will necessitate a revision of our laws of primogeniture and entail—our probate and legacy laws—and many other laws devised for the exclusive benefit of the rich—laws which have upheld the domination of a class, and have operated to the impoverishment and oppression of the rest of the community.

Let it not for a moment be supposed by any on this side of the Atlantic, that there is the faintest prospect of a return to the protective laws which have been recently swept away by the reformers of England. There is not one man among us, regarded by the People as worthy the name of an able or safe statesman who would venture to propose the re-imposition of the taxes upon food or the restoration of the old and now forever exploded protective policy.

The termination of our seven years' war with the bread taxers of England has set the energies of the nation free to be enlisted in other causes of a reformatory character. We have not been slow to summon these energies to the achievement of other triumphs.

He then speaks of the annual tax of the English nation, amounting to the gigantic sum of $100,000,000. Next he alludes to the subject of war, and states that $80,000,000 is paid by the English government to sustain the warlike establisment, in the time of peace. After stating that his country had six millions of adult males and but 750,000 electors, he proceeds as follows:

I have said enough to show you that we have plenty to do in England, in the way of reform, and sufficient, perhaps, to satisfy you, that bad as things are, we are progressing in the right direction. Past successes have shown us the power of a moral and peaceable agitation. The experience of the last half century has demonstrated, that no real reform, when demanded by the voice of the people, can be long delayed however strong the opposition to it may be.

We have seen the slave-trade abolished though princes of the blood royal, and the consolidated bench of bishops, and the whole of the mercantile interests of the nation stood in the way. We have seen the odious test and corporation acts, though supported by the banded bigotry and superstition of the realm, repealed by a parliament of churchmen.

We have seen Catholic emancipation, though withstood by a monarch and his minions, and opposed by all the influences of sectarian prejudice, wrung from a parliament of Orangemen.

We have seen a Reform Bill, though resisted by the King, with the Duke of Wellington and the army at his back, exorted from a parliament of Borough-mongers.

We have seen West Indian slavery, though upheld by half the titled, and all the money-making classes of society, abolished at the bidding of the moral and just-minded portions of the people; and we have seen the solid phalanx of the combined monopolists of England defeated by those who claimed for their fellow-men the right of exchanging the fruits of their industry for the harvests of the world.

I turn for a moment to the country I am permitted to visit, and I find that your course, like our own, has been onward.

Language fails to describe the progress you have made since I last stood on these shores. Here in this city I see all the evidences of increased population, augmented wealth, a growing commerce, an extending city; and a community in circumstances of comfort and prosperity that make me weep over the different lot of thousands in the cities and towns of my own land. I look into the Proclamation of your Governor, and I find that he calls upon you to thank God that "general health and plenty have prevailed in your Commonwealth. That in the workshops and on change; amid the peaceful pursuits of agriculture; in the busy marts of trade, and among the robust and hardy adventurers of the sea, who bring up from the depths of distant oceans the materials for lighting up their countrymen upon the land, a success and prosperity have awarded the enterprize of your varied industry and business, which evince an overruling Providence"

Citizens of Massachusetts! I congratulate you, from my heart, that such is your lot—I congratulate you still more, that, amid the signs of increasing material wealth and prosperity, there are also the infallible evidence of a no less remarkable progress in the moral feelings and the opinions of the people of this favored State. Need I go beyond these walls to find the proof that you have not stood still during the last fifteen years? Do I not furnish in my own history the unmistakable evidence, standing where I now do, that Massachusetts has kept pace with the spirit of the age—that Massachusetts has not sworn that she will not be wiser to-morrow than she is to-day—that Massachusetts has not forgotten the God that guided the Mayflower to Plymouth rock—and that, though the peerless intellect of Massachusetts may suffer from the stroke of a Southern sun, the heart of the old Bay State is sound, and still beats responsive to the instincts of nature, the dictates of humanity, and the claims of the trembling outcast who asks a shelter on her soil.

If I cast my eyes over the vast extent of your country, from the rocky shores of Maine to the gold regions of California, I find the same indications of growth, expansion, prosperity and power; indications, also, of the gradual but sure diffusion of principles, tending in their spread and triumph to the removal of whatever is calculated to sully the fair fame, or to impart the usefulness of this Nation. As a lover of human freedom, I cannot but rejoice that the last State admitted into the Union, is one which has by its own Constitution prohibited Slavery, and that at the last election in Massachusetts, a Free Soil candidate for Congress was triumphant.

Citizens of Massachussets, I come among you as a friend. As far as I am permitted to call myself the representative of any portion of my countrymen, I represent those who eqally with myself rejoice in your prosperity and sympathise with you in all your efforts to perpetuate liberty among yourselves, and extend it throughout the world. If there be any in England who envy your greatness—any who lament over the success of your great experiment—any who would gladly see you halt in your glorious career—any who would, if they had the means, impede your progress—with such I have neither connection nor sympathy. I leave them to seek fellowship with the despots and reactionists of Europe and to the vigilant attention of Barclay & Perkin's draymen. Standing here as an individual man, I can declare that as concerning the destinies of nations and after the success of the efforts of Reformers at home to obtain for the people of England their just rights, I desire nothing more earnestly than the stabillity and extension of the institutions of this country, as far as they are intended and designed to secure the liberty of the human race, without distinction of condition or color. As an Englishman, I thank God that so many of my countrymen, have found a home and a country here. I lament the causes that have compelled too many of them to emigrate to these shores, but I rejoice that here they have found a welcome—honest employment—a homestead—the privilege of citizenship and a home for their children. May they prove grateful for the benefits they have reaped on this soil, and may they render to God a suitable return by becoming the benefactors of all who like themselves, have experienced the evils of misgovernment—may they never steel their hearts against the cry of the helpless, or take part with the oppressors of their fellow men.

If it be imputed to me that I have identified myself with those who are held in slavery on this soil, and have sought to promulgate the doctrines of emancipation, I acknowledge the justice of the impeachment, and plead guilty. My offence reaches far beyond the limits of the United States. My aspirations for freedom are as wide as the soil polluted by the footprints of a tyrant. In advocating the rights of humanity, I know of no geographical boundaries. I walk upon God's earth, among God's children, and wherever I see one of them smitten down I will denounce the aggressor, and demand the deliverance of the captive.

If this be a crime, I am in good company. I am in company with a candidate for the Presidential chair. I am company with the Secretary of State for the United States of America.

These distinguished men may possibly make a distinction between an act committed on the banks of the Tyber and the Danube and a similar act committed on the banks of the Potomac or Mississippi. I can make no such distinction. They may make a distinction between Kossuth in Turkey and William Crafts in Massachusetts. I can make none.—I read the language of Mr. Webster and I admire it for the justice of the sentiments it breathes as well as for its lofty and thrilling eloquence, but he must not blame me if I apply it to other circumstances and events beside those which were under his notice at the time. He must not blame me, if standing in Faneuil Hall I say in his matchlesswords:

"I see that the South demands of Massachusetts that the noble Crafts and his equally noble companion should be given up, and I see that this demand is in derision of the established law of nations. Gentlemen, there is something on earth greater than arbitrary or despotic power. The lightning has its power, and the whirlwind has its power; but there is something among men more capable of shaking despotic power than lightning, whirlwind or earthquake—that is the threatened indignation of the whole civilized world."

Thanks to Massachusetts this indignation has not been invoked—on the contrary, the conduct of Massachusetts has been such as will light up with radiance the face of every man in every country who is the friend of humanity, and the consistent lover of impartial freedom. What need I say more than that I am proud to be on Massachusetts soil to night and will consent to be myself banished if I may leave this State as the inviolable asylum of the Slave.

In England, we are in the habit of welcoming many of the citizens of this country to our shores, and it has been my good fortune to have it in my power, sometimes to entertain at my humble board, the visitors who come among us. I trust that I may say we are not wanting either in individual or national hospitality. Some of those who thus honor thus, come on missions of philanthropy and reform. They come to turn us from our evil ways, and to expose in the clearer light with which you are blessed, our national sins and deformities. They come to rebuke the spirit of war, they come to speak temperance, they come to point our distressed and struggling population to this land of promise, where no tithe-collector and rack-renting landlords spoil the husbandman of the fruits of his industry. I think I may take upon me to say they have not been ill-received. At least, I may say this—that those with whom I am identified, have ever given such good men a warm welcome and their best wishes for their success.

Well, after 15 years absence, I revisit these shores. I come in the spirit of kindness and brotherly affection. I come to see those who cherished me when I was formerly here, who, were neither ashamed nor afraid to own themselves my friends when there was a state of feeling far different from that which now exists. If I have any mission it is one of my own desiring, for I consulted only my own inclinations and objects in coming. But if there be those who will have it that I come here with some special object, then, let me say that it is this if it is any,—To tell the citizens of these States that there are millions on the other side of the Atlantic, who glory in the success which has crowned the efforts of the People of this country to build up this Institution, and who look to America to send out through all lands the gospel of political liberty. To tell them, too, that there is one sad drawback upon their influence in Europe; and that it is Slavery. That the enemies of freedom point to that fault with exultation—that they desire its continuance and its spread—that they would be glad to see it reinstated in Massachusetts, and made eternal, that they might forever point to it as a proof of the licentiousness of those who set up to govern themselves and abuse their own liberty by enslaving others. If I have a mission it is this, and if I have a message, this is my message

Citizens of America, the ark of Liberty is with you, and the nations of the earth are flying to it. You are great, glorious, and free—but your slavery tarnishes your reputation, and fills the quiver of the enemies of freedom. Make haste then, to purge your nation from the stain. Continue the good work that has begun among you. Consider no foreigner a friend of America who vindicates your slavery; consider no man your enemy, who desires its overthrow. Peacefully but firmly proclaim the great truths which went from the Cradle of Liberty. Nor halt in your career of mercy until from the Atlantic to the Pacific—and from the isthmus of Panama to the most northern limits of your territory, your soil should be sacred to freedom and humanity.

PROCLAMATION.

By the Governor of Wisconsin.

The TWELFTH DAY OF DECEMBER next is hereby, by the Governor of the State of Wisconsin, appointed and recommended to be observed, by the people of this State, as a day of public THANKSGIVING and PRAYER to our Spirit Father, for the manifold kindnesses and blessings, which, from the plenitude of His goodness, has fallen upon us, both as a State and a Nation.

Gratitude for benefits received, is among the brightest traits of American character, and no people entertain a more elevated sense of their moral and religious duty in manifesting, in a proper and becoming manner, the obligations they owe as the recipients of favors invaluable and unnumbered.

No State enjoys, in a higher degree, the requisites, physical, moral, social and intellectual, conducive to the happiness and prosperity of its people, than our own.

For the acknowledgment of our obligations, for our enjoyment of life, liberty and happiness; of a fertile soil and a healthful climate; of the rewards of successful labor, mental and physical: of liberty of conscience and of speech of governmental protection, and all wants supplied, the annual day of prayer and thanksgiving has become endeared to the American people, and is regarded as a happy and impressive occasion, worthy to be observed by religious exercises. It calls up the memory of the early purity of our forefathers, whose gratitude and piety instituted its observance. It tends to gladden with joyous hopes, religious sympathy and faith, the family fireside, and to re-unite, with mutual love, the domestic circle. It is a domestic as well as a general and public occasion.

Let us then, as becomes a grateful people, observe this time-honored occasion, and on that day let the voice of praise and prayer, blended with the voice of gratitude, be raised from every place of religious devotion, and from every heart and fireside, to that kind Providence from whose hands all our blessings and enjoyments have been received during the present year.

In Testimony Whereof, I, NELSON DEWEY, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, have hereunto set my hand, and affixed the great Seal of the State. Done at Lancaster, this tenth day of November, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty

NELSON DEWEY.

LIFE ASSURANCE.
Ætna Insurance Company, HARTFORD, Conn.—ANNUITY FUND, $150,000.—This well known and long established Company, having organized a new department for LIFE INSURANCE, with an entirely distinct capital exclusively pledged with its reserved accumulations, for the payment of losses upon Life Insurance only, and in no event liable for the other debts, contracts, or engagements of the Company, is now prepared to issue Policies on Lives, at rates materially reduced from those charged by the Mutual Companies. The leading idea of the system adopted by this Company, is, to ascertain precisely what it is worth to insure a given amount upon a life for a certain time, and to charge precisely that sum, and no more: it is attended with none of those vexatious contingencies which are inseparable from the mutual system—it has nothing to do with scrip dividends or bonuses, the declaration of which upon true and equitable principles, is attended with so much difficulty and perplexity—it is perfectly simple, as well as uniform and equal in all its operations.

The promptness, fairness and liberality which have marked all the dealings of this Company, for a period of thirty years, and the well known character of its officers and directors, afford the surest guaranty that its affairs will be so managed as to afford to the assured that ultimate safety and security which is of first importance in Life Assurance.

Policies will be granted payable after death, or upon the party's arriving at a specified age, at his option; in either case, free from the claims of creditors. The usual extra risks will be assumed by this Company at reasonable rates.

Pamphlets containing Rates of Premium, and information in relation to the plan of operations, and all necessary papers to effect insurance, may be obtained at the Agency of this Company.

THE POPULAR CYCLOPEDIA OF
MODERN DOMESTIC MEDICINE
BY KEITH IMRAY, M. D.
Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, and Licentiate of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh.
AMERICAN EDITION.
One large Octavo Volume, substantially bound.

THIS work presents a concise but clear view of the predisposing causes, premonitory signs, and distinguishing symptoms of disease, with the methods of cure recommended by the most eminent physicians.

The best modes of employing the medicines in general use are faithfully described; and the most approved rules for regulating diet and regimen during the periods of disease and convalescence, are amply furnished.

The art of Preserving Health, embracing special Treatises on Diet, Air, Temperance, Bathing, Clothing, and Exercise, is fully considered.

The publishers of the American edition have introduced Dr. Imray's work with short, illustrated, very complete sketches of Anatomy, Physiology and Surgery: and with directions for the domestic management of the sick, the preparation of their food, and the economy of the sick room, &c. They have also annexed a comprehensive MOTHER'S MEDICAL GUIDE, containing directions for the preservation of health during pregnancy, rules for managing the lying-in-room, and the treatment of infants, including air, clothing, exercise, &c. Also, a large number of valuable prescriptions, arranged for ready application; and a very full classified table of medicines, exhibiting their medicinal properties, doses and uses.

The Index is unusually complete, making the whole a most perfect and valuable work for families.

It can confidently be recommended to physicians and apothecaries, as well as to the public, as a book that will be found singularly convenient for ready reference.

CHICAGO
BRASS & BELL FOUNDRY.
H. W. RINCKER,
No. 198 Randolph street, Chicago Also on Canal street, opposite Foss's Planing Mill

THE Proprietor of this establishment is now prepared to cast BELLS of all sizes. He would particularly invite those who wish to purchase Church Bells to those of his manufacture. His Bells will be sold on as reasonable terms as they can be purchased from the east, or from agents of eastern establishments. They will be sold cheaper, in fact, because he can make as good a Bell, that will give as large a volume of sound, as those of eastern manufacture, with one-fourth less weight of metal, and this proportion of money is thus saved in the purchase of his bells. He warrants them not to break for one year with proper usage, and should one fail or not prove to be as good as represented, it may be returned to his shop, and be made good without expense to the purchaser, by a re-cast; or be replaced by a new one if one should break at any time during his life, he will re-cast it for half the expense of casting. Western people will see the advantage in dealing with a western man, and patronizing western interests.

Mr. Rincker is a German, a bell-founder by profession, and he is confident that he thoroughly understands his business

He will cast bells to any tone or key that may be desired. He can also cast his bells to chime in harmony. Heretofore the chiming bells used in this country have been brought from Europe, but he is able to make them as correct and musical in tone as any that may be imported.

His bells have taken the premiums at the two last Fairs of the Chicago Mechanics Institute—the last Fair awarding him a Gold Medal. The following is a copy of the Report of the Committee on the Bell submitted for inspection in the Fair of May, 1850:

Article 11, Class No. 6, Church Bells

A Bell of 740 lbs by Mr. H. W. Rincker, of this city, is well made and a smooth casting. It exhibits a great deal of skill in its manufacture; has an admirable tone, and throws a greater volume of sound than any bell with which we are acquainted of its size. A trial was had between the above bell and one manufactured by Mr. Meneely of Troy, N. Y., the latter being considerable heavier of the two. [955 lbs] The arrangement for ringing Mr Ricker's bell was temporary, and by far inferior to that of Mr. Meneely's, notwithstanding which we believe that there was but little difference in the distance that the two bells could be heard, and that the tone of Mr. Rincker's bell was by far the most pleasing to the ear. A Gold Medal was awarded to Mr Rincker.

The above is a true copy of the Report.
G. R. SLOAT,
Secretary of the Board of Directors of Chicago Mechanics' Institute.

H. W. RINCKER is also prepared to do all kinds of BRASS WORK, CASTING and FINISHING, on short notice and in good style; such as Machinery, Magnetic Machines, Physical Instruments, Soda Fountains, Beer Pumps, Stop-Cocks, Oil Globes, &c. Also heavy Copper Work, for all purposes.
